

Resume: From the premiere of the “Mirror wars – first reflection” by special reporter of KM.RU
(original translation of article: Julia, devoted russian Armand Assante fan)

The 31st of August 2005 at the premiere of the movie:
“Mirror wars – first reflection” in the Pushkinsky cinema, Moscow.

Alexander Rapoport and Armand Assante

The american actors stood out in their nice behavior from the russian.
Armand Assante arrived almost 5 minutes before shedule and was neither embarressed nor irritated by the many interviewers and photographers.
He smiled freindly and gave air kisses, possed willingly in front of the cameras and took time to give autographs. The KM.ru was honoured to have one.

Armand Assante was covered with questions, one of them was: "How do you like Moscow and it's citizens ?"

Armand answered that every time he had ben to Moscow, he sadly had to work at such tight schedule and do that many takes in a row, that he had no sparetime to go sightseeing, but as soon as he had finished his work, he would sure like to see the town for real.

That's why russians are (were) likely to spot him in the streets in the nearby future !

The bystanders paid attention to that Armand shook hands with Alexander Rapoport as if they were bosom freinds.

(*Alexander Rapoport: originally educated psychiatric doctor, now makes a living as an actor, TV- and radioprogramme producer, also a filmography composer)